PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By: Joseph M. Albosta

Our Annual Meeting and Golf Outing is right around the corner (June 22nd to be precise) and there are openings to be filled at our upcoming annual meeting. In June, we will elect new Board members and a new Vice President. Judge Dicken, my Vice President will assume the mantle of President and lead our fine organization for the 2023-2024 term. However, we need motivated individuals to take roles on the Board and to become active on our various Committees. I cannot overstate how important it is that we get new individuals involved with the leadership of the SCBA. If you or someone you know is interested in serving on the Board or as Vice President, please submit their name to the Nominating Committee. The Nominating Committee consists of Hon. Darnell Jackson, Joseph Collison, and John Swartz, Jr.

We also want to remind everyone that we are still planning a trip to Washington, D.C. for a swearing-in ceremony at the Supreme Court. Keep your eyes on your email for more details concerning that trip. Once we have enough interested parties, we will work with the Court to get a firm date for the ceremony.

This is my last time writing to you as President and I wanted to thank everyone who has helped me along the way. I have spent the last several years of my life serving on various boards and committees, and my time on this one is coming to an end. It has been a genuine pleasure to work with everyone in our legal community here in Saginaw County.

SAGINAW COUNTY LAWYERS' AUXILIARY

By: Claudia J. Wallace

Spring Greetings.

The weather forecast for April in Michigan is anything goes, including major snowfall in parts and tornados in others. Go figure. Now into May, let us start to enjoy SPRING!

Law Day Mock Trials are behind us. The anticipation of being able to do them again was exciting for everyone. I will report next month with details.

The SCLA is back to in-person meetings again with great turnouts. It has been very nice to see everyone in person and to discuss matters together.

The members seem to be reinspired. It may be due to three young ladies making the difference. They know how to get things done with their executive skills. Thank you, ladies.

This year, Sue Smith and myself are on board for hosting the Spring luncheon. It will be hard to beat the past few years, but try we will. I have left the menu in the artistic hands of Lonnie and her staff at the Artisan Urban Bistro. She is excited and looking forward to creating a unique and delicious meal for us.

The date is Thursday, May 11th at 11:30 a.m. The Bistro is located at 417 Hancock Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

Please call Sue Smith (202) 735-4506 or myself (989) 245-4628 for details.

Happy Spring to everyone.

LEGAL SERVICES OF EASTERN MICHIGAN

By: Matthew A. Sous

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS:

LSEM PLANS LADYBIRD DEED CLINIC TO PRESERVE HOMEOWNERSHIP FOR LOW-INCOME FAMILIES ON AUGUST 10TH.

Legal Services of Eastern Michigan (LSEM) is excited to announce a new Ladybird deed clinic to help low-income homeowners, at or below 200% of the poverty line, prepare Ladybird deeds. This event is being organized by LSEM in partnership with several community organizations including the Saginaw County Register of Deeds, the City of Saginaw CDBG Division, the Saginaw Community Action Center, The Neighbor, and the Saginaw County Bar Pro Bono Committee.

A Ladybird deed, also known as an enhanced life estate deed, is a type of real estate transfer used in estate planning. During their lifetime, a Ladybird deed grants the homeowner maximum flexibility to do what they want with their property, including rights to sell, gift, mortgage, lease, or do anything else with their property. However, if the home has not been transferred before the homeowner's death, the Ladybird deed ensures that the property automatically transfers to their designated beneficiary without having to go through the Probate Court.

On a near daily basis, LSEM and our community partners help clients who face legal problems that could have been prevented by a Ladybird deed. Considering that many low-income homeowners die intestate, probating their home could mean losing it to creditors or having the home's title divided into fractional shares amongst extended family members that may not even live in the area. As a result, many families avoid probating the home and it eventually ends up being lost to tax or mortgage foreclosure.

While it doesn't create a full estate plan, for most low-income homeowners, a Ladybird deed will help to ensure that their family home continues to stay within, and benefit, the decedent's family.

We will need volunteers to help both on the day of the clinic and to assist in preparing deeds before the clinic. We encourage you to sign up for either or both roles. Even if you have never prepared a Ladybird deed before, LSEM will provide training, guidance, and sample documents to ensure that you can confidently provide advice to participants.

LSEM will also provide the names and contact information of interested volunteer attorneys to clinic applicants who make too much money to financially qualify for the clinic.

The clinic will take place on August 10, 2023, with more details to follow on the SCBA listserv. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact me at msous@lsem-mi.org or via phone at (989) 244-1666.

ACCESS TO JUSTICE: HAVE YOU DONATED?

By: Jamie Clayton, Pro Bono Coordinator

In 2019, the State Bar of Michigan changed the way attorneys are able to make donations to Legal Aid Programs, such as Legal Services of Eastern Michigan (LSEM). Donations statewide are handled through the Access to Justice Campaign (ATJ). You may have seen information about the campaign on your state bar dues, as well as the SCBA dues form.

So, let's talk about why these donations are important:

- In 2021, 1,736,245 Michiganders were considered low-income and eligible for legal aid services. This means there is one legal aid attorney for every 5,401 low-income resident eligible for legal aid.
- Approximately 15.6% of the state's population living in poverty and eligible for services live in the fourteen counties served by LSEM.

We simply do not have the resources to provide assistance to all those in need.

By donating to ATJ your money is leveraged and LSEM receives the benefit! The way the ATJ campaign distributes the money is based on poverty populations. LSEM not only receives the money that attorneys in our area contribute; we may also receive additional money based on our poverty population. By participating in ATJ we are benefiting more and so are the clients we serve. This is why we ask you to contribute to the Access to Justice Campaign.

Consider how your donations can make a difference. Per the state bar directory, there are currently 411 licensed attorneys in Saginaw County. If each attorney gave the recommended contribution of $300, that would be $123,300! With that LSEM could hire two more staff attorneys and other support staff. We would have resources to pay for appraisals, experts, investigations, and surveys, etc. - things our clients simply cannot afford but are important to the outcome of their case.

Please give to the Access to Justice Campaign. Donations are made online through the Access to Justice website at: <https://atjfund.org/>.

If you have made a donation to ATJ, please let LSEM's Pro Bono Coordinator: Jamie Clayton, know about it. This can be done by email at jclayton@lsem-mi.org or by phone at (989) 252-7329. There is also an option right on the donation form that you can notify someone of your donation.

Most importantly: We want to recognize you! Every year in October, which is also Pro Bono Month, LSEM and the SCBA honor all the pro bono efforts of the members of the Saginaw County Bar with an annual luncheon and awards ceremony. Your donations are also honored and LSEM would like to make sure that all your efforts are documented!

Please keep in mind that LSEM is ALWAYS looking for more attorneys to volunteer their time as well. There are several ways you can volunteer. If you are interested in learning more about Pro Bono opportunities, please contact Jamie Clayton at the above-mentioned contact info.

WOMEN LAWYERS ASSOCIATION

By: Chelsea N. Brown, Vice President
Great Lakes Bay Region

The WLAM GLBR membership recently attended Legally Blonde – The Musical at the Midland Center for the Arts. The musical is based on the notorious movie, Legally Blonde, which follows the transformation of Elle Woods in her pursuit of a law degree from Harvard Law. The show was a wonderful community event that also perfectly aligned with the mission of the Woman Lawyers Association. The WLAM GLBR members had a wonderful time and hope to attend more events at the Midland Center for the Arts in the future. (See photos on page 11)

We have several exciting events coming up. We are continuing our monthly Bar Review events. So far, we have gathered for an evening of socializing at local bars in Midland and Saginaw counties. Our next Bar Review event will be held on May 18, 2023 at 5:30 at Prost! Wine Bar and Charcuterie in their relatively new location in Bay City. We will continue to hold these events throughout the Great Lakes Bay Region.

Our annual event will be held June 20, 2022 at the Saginaw Club. The annual event is a night of socializing and honoring local women. Specifically, we will be giving out two awards, the Liberty Bell Award and the Margaret Louise Rorke Leadership Award. The Liberty Bell Award is given each year by local bar associations in conjunction with Law Day to honor outstanding citizens within the local community. The award recognizes outstanding service performed by a non-lawyer citizen who has given of his or her time and energy to strengthen the effectiveness of the American system of freedom under law, in keeping with the spirit of our Constitution. The Margaret Louise Rorke Award is given in the name of the first known woman lawyer to be sworn in as an attorney in this region. Margaret (Curry) Rorke was admitted to the bar on November 9, 1942 in Saginaw. She joined her father to form the law firm of Curry & Curry. The recipient of the Margaret Louise Rorke award is a WLAM member that passionately gives back to the community and/or has helped to create opportunities for others, has tenacious integrity, practices law in a fair and ethical way, and demonstrates a unique ability to guide and inspire others. Last year, we gave the Liberty Bell Award to Linda Gleesing of the Underground Railroad and the Margaret Louise Rorke Leadership Award to Julie Gafkay of Gafkay Law. We look forward to honoring new award recipients this year. The annual meeting is also an opportunity to swear in our new board.

WLAM is always happy to accept new members or sponsorships for our events. If you or someone you know is interested in joining or sponsoring our organization, please visit our Facebook page or reach out to Chelsea Brown at chebro@braunkendrick.com (or any one of our other board members) for more information.

BANKRUPTCY CASE NOTES

By: Jack Weinstein

Continued from last month regarding the article entitled “Are Valuation Disputes Futile?”, written by Camisha L. Simmons:

“Because of the subjective nature of the appraisal process, courts are given wide latitude in determining value. A court is not bound by the values determined by appraisals but rather may form its own opinion as to the value of the subject property after the consideration of the appraisers’ testimony and their appraisals. Moreover, because the valuation process often involves the analysis of conflicting appraisal testimony, a court must necessarily assign weight to the opinion testimony received based on its view of the qualifications and credibility of the parties’ expert witnesses.”

Moreover, although appraisal testimony and appraisal reports are considered, courts will reject as invalid an appraisal method that does not appear to render “an amount that a willing buyer would actually pay to a willing seller.” In addition, it is important to note that Smith’s idea of valuation, which is embedded in the concept of fair market value utilized by the courts, looks to healthy business transactions rather than distressed transactions for an accurate estimate of value.

Final Analysis:

Should the Market Decide?

Parties do not have the opportunity to let the market determine value in some cases. In those cases, the fact-finder, after considering and weighing the evidence, will have to make a judgment call on the issue. However, when the circumstances of the case allow for market forces to operate unfettered and the market speaks for itself, will bankruptcy courts defer to the market’s voice? For example, in many cases, a debtor proposes to market its asset(s) for sale and/or refinancing in bankruptcy. In those cases, the pre-petition creditor that has a lien on the asset(s) may seek stay relief, thus triggering a valuation fight. Faced with competing valuations, should or would the bankruptcy court grant the debtor a grace period and opportunity to test the market to assess the accurate market value for the asset(s) through consummation of a sale or refinancing with a willing buyer and/or lender? We will leave that question for the courts to decide.

*****

The following is information I received from Chapter 13 Trustee, Thomas McDonald’s office, regarding the Biden’s Administration announcement concerning a new policy regarding the discharge of federal-backed student loans.

The new policy changes are intended to relax bankruptcy treatment for federal student loan borrowers.

Under the policy changes announced last month by the Education Department and Justice Department, they will evaluate the information and determine if the borrower is able to demonstrate undue hardship. If so, the government would choose not to oppose the borrower’s adversary proceedings and will endorse a bankruptcy discharge.

Importantly, this process would not eliminate the undue hardship standard or the need for a borrower to file an adversary proceeding. But the changes will provide a potential path for a borrower not to have the federal government oppose their discharge request in that adversary proceeding.

While this would not guarantee that the borrower would ultimately receive a bankruptcy discharge of their federal student loan debt, it would make the process significantly easier for borrowers, as judges are more likely to grant a request if the two opposing parties are aligned.

Factors to be considered in student loan bankruptcy discharge request under new policy:

According to the Justice Department, officials will assess various undue hardship factors to determine whether or not it will oppose a federal student loan bankruptcy discharge. These factors, which are based on undue hardship standards established by key federal court precedents for student loan bankruptcies, will include the following:

Present ability to pay: Using IRS standards, the Justice Department will evaluate a borrower's income and expenses. If the borrower appears unable to cover their reasonable expenses with their current income streams, they lack a present ability to pay their student loans.

Future ability to pay: Assessing a borrower's future ability to pay their loans has always been a challenging aspect of the undue hardship test. Under the administration's new policy, the Justice Department will assess whether the borrower's present inability to pay is likely to continue into the future.

To do that, officials will assume that the borrower's financial circumstances are not likely to change if certain factors are present. Those factors can include the age of the borrower, a disability or chronic injury, long periods of unemployment, a lack of a degree, or a long time spent in repayment on their loans with little or no progress in paying it down.

Borrowers who do not present one or more of these factors may have a tougher time showing that they meet the undue hardship standard, but the Justice Department will consider a borrower's unique facts and circumstances.

Good Faith Efforts

The undue hardship standard requires that borrowers must have made "good faith efforts" to repay their student loans to qualify for a bankruptcy discharge. According to the Justice Department guidance, the administration will "focus on objective criteria reflecting the debtor's reasonable efforts to earn income, manage expenses, and repay their loan."

Simply contacting the Department of Education or the borrower's designated loan service regarding payment options may be sufficient to establish a good faith effort, even if the borrower did not ultimately make payments on their loan. Importantly, failing to enroll in an income-driven repayment plan is not an automatic disqualifier for the good-faith prong, as long as the borrower can demonstrate a good faith reason (i.e., for some borrowers, even payments on an income-driven plan may be unaffordable).

To be continued in another issue...
